About me

Jiadong (JD in short) is a curious engineer who is relentlessly seeking for elegant and robust solutions of robotics problems. With broad theoretical understanding and diverse practical experience in field robotics, he now wants to bring AI into life.

Knowledge

Coding

(*)[The skill scale is from 0 (Fundamental Awareness) to 6 (Expert).]

Interests

Robotics perception and control, especially learning-based approaches.

Education

- 2016-2019 M.Sc. in Robotics, Systems and Control ETH Zurich
Specializing in learning, vision and control. Graded 5.64/6.
- 2011-2016 B.Sc. in Mechanical Engineering RWTH Aachen
Specializing in automotive engineering. Graded 1.7/1.
- 2004-2010 High School Shanghai Foreign Language School
German as first foreign language.

Publications

- 2019 Local descriptor for robust place recognition using LiDAR intensities, 1st author ICRA 2019
- 2019 Robust photogeometric localization over time for map-centric loop closure, 4th author ICRA 2019

Awards

- 2017 Overall best team in CAT vehicle challenge, University of Arizona.

Experience

- Apr 2016 Semester Project Agile & dexterous robotics lab, ETH Zurich
State and inertial parameter estimation of a quadruped, 6 months.
- Sep 2016 Teaching Assistance Institute for Machine Learning, ETH Zurich
Supporting Machine Learning class, 3 months.
- Mar 2017 Intern in Control Flyability SA, Lausanne, Switzerland
Control algorithm evaluation and implementation, prototyping, simulation, sensor integration, 8 months.
- Nov 2018 Master thesis and internship CSIRO's Data61, Brisbane Australia
Perception of autonomous utility vehicle with LiDAR and camera, develop and deployed a robust localization approach.

Other information

Projects

Details about previous projects, developed on real-size cars, drones, can be found under personal page and YouTube channel.

Hobby

JD climbs, kitesurfs and snowboards. He was also consistently ranked masters with random race on StarCraft 2, and won the second place in Achener Championship.
